DEMOCRACY.

ADDRESS OF THE NATIONAL DEMO-CRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

NEW YORK, October 3 Fellow-citizens: It is a great privilege and duty to address you on the eve of the great battle which we are to fight and which is to decide whether the Goveroment of this Republic is to remain four years more in the hands of the Radleal party, or whether, by an energetic, united, and last effort, you will wrest the power from its grasp, and give to us, under a D-mecratic conservative ad-ministration, a Government based upon

The issues of the present campaign are self-evident. They appeal to the intelligence and patriotism of every voter in the most unmistakable terms. They have been discussed by distinguished orators of our party since the nomination your race. of our candidates. What the Demo- Work as cratic party intends to do if placed in power by your suffrage is to restore peace and union to our country; to heal the wounds and sufferings caused by the re-bellion; to give to the people of the South the rights which they are entitled to under the Constitution, and by which alone we can bring back prosperity and quiet to that distracted section; to reduce materially our military and naval introduce into every department of govation, the growing resources of our country, and thus place the Federal fluances

As every expression of opinion upon the cotton crop of this year is of interest to our people, we make place for the foilowing "talk on cotton," from one who were thrown down and a considerable is evidently thoroughly informed upon number badly damaged. On Pine, Battery, Clay and Sansom streets, near Callfornia, the ground sank, throwing the is not likely to fall to the low rates specwriting, 9 o'clock a. m., no estimate of the damage can be made, though it is will rule before the close of the year. On the contrary, he suggests that figures will be higher than an average of 25c

To the Editor of the Liver; ool Mercury: Gentlemen: Judging from the un settled and fitful state of the cotton mar ket, it might naturally be supposed that the supply available for this next year was likely to prove greatly in the excess if the necessities of consumers. I think

At this period last year the favorite erop figures varied from 2,600,000 to 3,000,000 baies, and yet every advantage both se regards weather and labor, the actual yield, excluding old cotton, did not prove much, if any, over 2,400,600

There is not the slightest ground for assuming that a larger quantity can be gathered this year; while, on the other hand, there is the positive certainty that, with an early frost, the yield must prove considerably less. The "bears" will doubtless make the most of the fact that the receipts at the American ports during the first three months of this season are likely to prove largely in excess of last year, and that they will try to induce people to believe that this fact indicates that the crop will be a much larger one than the last, but a moment's reflection must at once dispel any such theory; for, independent of the fact that the reots are no indication of the actual vield (as a reference to the cotton tables. showing the weekly receipts before the war, will clearly show) there are many reasons why the receipts during the early part of last year were unusually high, amongst others, I may mention the prevalence of yellow fever at New Orleans and Texas, and the operations of the Cotton-tax Collectors.

Turning to India, the future does not look promising. All the authorities are unanimous in stating that a smaller area of ground is upder cuttivation, while i s notorious that the weather during the sowing season was most unpropitious, especially in the Northwest provinces, where it is questionable if the damage done can be partially repaired; so that

It is quite immaterial whether we receive a emaller or larger supply from America this year, as any surplus received must necessarily be at the expense of our sup-ply for next year.
